The DEKRA Process Safety Academy is renowned in the process industry. With its newly launched Virtual Process Safety Academy, DEKRA now offers a comprehensive training program for the process industry. It builds on the proven expertise of the “DEKRA Process Safety” business unit. The training content is consistent around the world and is available in the nine most important languages in the process industry.

This new training program focuses on the risks in the process industry. The content is based on the recognized expertise and experience of DEKRA Process Safety's international experts and consists of eight learning packages:

- HAZOP for participants
- HAZOP for facilitators
- Process Safety Management
- Gas/liquid explosions
- Combustible dust explosions
- Chemical reaction hazards
- Incident investigation
- Layer of protection analysis (LOPA)

Each package consists of a series of online training modules, complemented with exercises, workshops and examinations. The training program is a cost-effective and sustainable solution for companies, in line with the current trends in skills development. The Virtual Process Safety Academy is available in nine major languages, including some less commonly offered languages such as Arabic, Chinese, and Portuguese. The online training courses are suitable for various process industries and can be used on a flexible basis for individuals as well as large international companies. It is also possible to adapt the program to specific company requirements.
