

Environmental Management

ISO 14001

Product Sheet

You apply a defined environmental policy and include environmental aspects in your business decisions. Now you can prove your commitment to the environment even more clearly with the internationally recognised DEKRA certificate and seal and show your customers that you are moving in the direction of the future. The certification of your environmental management system according to ISO 14001 will not only increase the trust and confidence placed in you but also provides you with an assessment of your system for compliance with statutory regulations.

What Is ISO 14001?

This standard is suitable for any organization in any sector. It creates a balance between operational profitability and environmental protection. ISO 14001 is the world's most important specification of what environmental management in organizations should cover and achieve. The application of this standard offers you the opportunity to coordinate your environmental activities – with a focus on a continuous improvement process for reducing the burden on the environment. You will also gain an effective tool for identifying cost-saving potential. Certification by DEKRA is proof of your environmental credentials. Our certificates and the DEKRA Seal often support success in both national and international markets.

What DEKRA offers you

A consistently implemented environmental management system certified to ISO 14001 by DEKRA will help you to permanently improve your company's performance:

- Cost reduction through careful and efficient use of resources
